Why He Signed the Pledge.

LENGTH, 825 FEET.

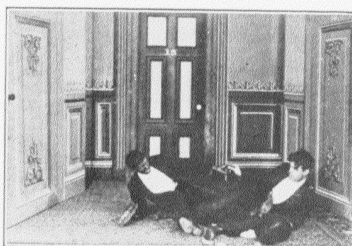

Mr. Gay-boy and two friends go sight-seeing. After visiting a dozen "Thirst Parlors" he is in a very hilarious state.

Return- "on the job" has left his implements for a moment. The couple arrive and the wife seeing the stranger asks if he is the paper hanger.

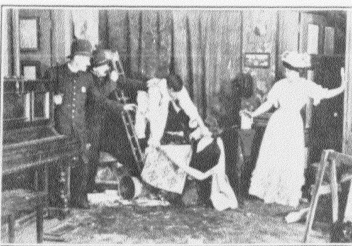

He replies "he is." He now starts to work. After smearing the place all up, pulling down the pictures and destroying things generally, the promptly finished by Gayboy.

Friends come to his rescue. Gayboy is arrested and upon signing the pledge is allowed to go home.

ing to his hotel he gets in the wrong room. Unfortunately this is one of a suite reserved for a young married couple. A paper hanger husband starts to correct him but retires limping and incidentally a hum a paste pot. The wife calls the police. The first one to arrive is
